Orders can be picked up at any of Vance Outdoors retail stores or you can elect to ship the weapon to another FFL dealer of your choice. If shipping to another FFL dealer, please note that freight charges will apply. In addition, most FFL dealers will assess an additional transfer fee (payable to that dealer).

The weapons are not in stock and you will be notified by Vance's when your order has arrived at their store. As these are custom weapons, it will be several months between order and delivery.

Customers are reminded that "Straw Purchases" are in violation of federal law. Vance's staff are trained to watch for suspected straw purchase and may contact the buyer for further information. Weapons may be bought for other persons, as long as they are "gifted" to the other person and no money is exchanged, even if for the exact purchase price. Best practice would be to have anyone wishing to purchase a weapon to use the link / password and complete the required ATF forms themselves.
